Linklaters ICSA Certificate in Employee Share Plans course - Registrations open

The world of share plans has always been fast changing. The need to stay on top of the latest rules and regulations, new ideas and increasing commercial constraints is more important than ever before.

Linklaters, in conjunction with the ICSA, has developed the UK's only professionally recognised certificate in employee share plans which helps practitioners overcome these difficulties. Over the last three years more than 250 people have successfully completed the course.

The course will enable you to:

- Enhance your career prospects - it is the only recognised professional share plan qualification in the UK.
- Ensure you are best equipped for your role - it provides a mix of good practical advice and will give you an excellent understanding of the key legal, regulatory and tax environments in which share schemes operate.
- Provide you with a wide perspective and a great network on which to build - it is suitable for a wide range of individuals, company secretaries, administrators, human resources specialists and financial services providers.
- Learn from the leading employee incentives team in the UK - Linklaters employee incentives team has been ranked as the leading practice for each of the last ten years by the legal directories.

"The ICSA course provides a comprehensive review of share plan fundamentals whilst also having sufficient depth to enable attendees to acquire specialist knowledge. Popular with both our share plan specialists and HR generalists, I see the course as the 'gold standard' in the share plan arena."

Grainne O'Connell, Vodafone

The course can be obtained through a series of nine evening sessions to be held in London beginning in March 2008.
